1. Received feedback

Feature/page:	User 1 (6/10)	User 2 (6/10)
Home page	Empty, thought they needed to wait on something to load still	Empty, logo would be nice in the center
Nav bar	(when logged in as user) nav bar has 3 buttons that don't show anything	-
Register page	Inputs are all in one line and there is no confirmation if it worked or even did anything	Email before username and password, also maybe a confirm password , add redirect to login and or empty text boxes
Login page	Simple, why have forget password if it doesn't lead to anything	-
Profile	-	User doesn't care what role they have or what their id is
Users list	No way to order the users alphabetically	Edit is fine, but have a prompt for deleting yourself
Edit user	Text boxes are stretched across the entire page and labels are in different places for each input	Admin shouldnt be able to change the password. Editing yourself doesn't change details locally, only relogging in works.
Roles list	Simple list	No option to add, why do i need to see the roles if i know im admin and everyone else is user
Playlists	No way to see playlists	No way to make new playlists besides manually typing in the link, created playlists

2. Steps to be taken

Based on the feedback above, during the 5th sprint I will take the following steps to improve the user experience:

1. Add something to the home page so it's not a blank white page.
2. Either remove navbar buttons that don't lead anywhere or finish the page it should bring you to
3. Tidy up the register page and have it redirect to either the login page or automatically login and redirect to the profile page.
4. Create a forgot password feature using the user's email
5. Remove the role and user id from the profile page
6. Add a prompt when trying to delete users/yourself
7. Try to implement sorting in the users table
8. Fix the styles on the edit user page and relog the user in so that the details are refreshed
9. Implement the existing add and update methods for roles in the backend as actions in the roles page
10. Make the add playlist page accessible without having to manually type the link
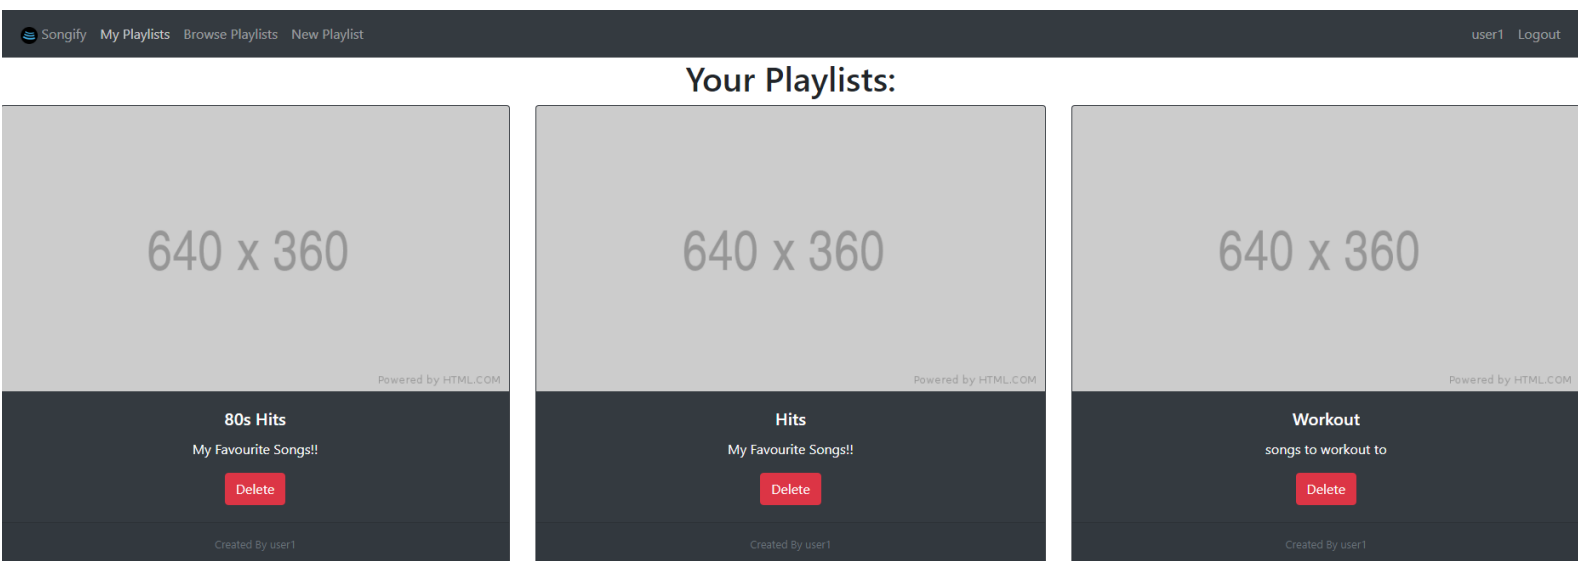

3. Steps taken with results

1. For the first step, to give the home page some content, I added the "Welcome to Songify" and added the logo as well.

2. To correct this navbar issue, I removed the test button since it did not lead anywhere anymore, and implemented the my playlists and browse playlist features so that their navbar links were not leading to white pages.

3. For the register page, the styles are no longer basic textboxes with no colour, and a redirect was added straight to the login page upon successful registration.

4. A Forgot Password feature has not been implemented.
5. The ID and role were removed from the profile page/component.

6. The following prompt, with a confirm and cancel option was added when trying to delete any user.

localhost:3000 says

Are you sure you want to delete this user?
OK   Cancel

7. Sorting was implemented for the id, username, email and both roles related fields, but not for password or the actions column. The sortable columns look like regular buttons to indicate the search possibility, styles are subject to change.

9. Add and update are now part of the "actions" column in the roles table.

Roles

ID	Name	Actions
1	USER	Edit
2	ADMIN	Edit

Add a new role

10. To make this page accessible, a "new playlist" button was added to the nav bar.
